

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

Doctoral Colloquium and Mentoring

A DAY DEDICATED TO DOCTORAL STUDENTS AND THE MENTORS

The Doctoral Colloquium and Mentoring is a session for doctoral students specializing in finance and accounting, held on June 5, 2027, before the main conference. The day is open to all participating doctoral students and includes the paper presentations and the mentoring session. Posters are presented in a dedicated poster session during the main conference, June 6–8, 2027; the exact time will be announced in the conference program.

KEY DATES

Submission opens
November 1
2026Submission deadline
January 15
2027Notification of decision
February 22
2027

FORMAT

June 5, 2027

The day opens with a general assembly of mentors and students, followed by parallel paper sessions chaired by the mentors. The afternoon is devoted to the mentoring session, followed by an open discussion. Participants receive targeted, constructive feedback on their research and guidance on the academic landscape, the job market, and their professional development.

DOCTORAL
MENTORSVasso Ioannidou
City St George's,
University of LondonAlexander Michaelides
Imperial College
London
Lead MentorLinda A. Myers
University of Tennessee, KnoxvilleSuresh Sundaresan
Columbia University

WAYS TO PARTICIPATEPaper presentation*June 5, 2027

For doctoral students with a completed working paper or job market paper. Papers are presented in sessions chaired by the mentors during the Doctoral Colloquium and Mentoring, and each presenter also discusses a fellow student's paper. The format allows time for detailed comments from mentors and peers, which students can use in revising the paper for the job market or for journal submission.

Poster presentationJune 6–8, 2027

For doctoral students with work in progress, or with a paper that will still be incomplete by the time of the conference. Posters are presented in a dedicated poster session during the main conference. Students can discuss early-stage research with conference participants and receive comments while the project can still change direction. A finished paper is not required; a working draft or an early version of the paper is sufficient. Abstracts and extended abstracts are not accepted.

Mentoring sessionJune 5, 2027

Open to all doctoral students taking part in FMARC 2027, including those presenting posters. In the afternoon, the mentors address topics chosen to reflect the interests of the participating students, followed by an open discussion.

SUBMISSION AND SELECTIONSelection

All submissions are reviewed by the mentors, who select those included in the Doctoral Colloquium and Mentoring Session and in the poster presentations.

Best Doctoral Paper

Selected by the doctoral mentors among papers presented in the Doctoral Colloquium and Mentoring Session.

How to submitSubmit Your Paperwww.fmarc.eu/submit-your-paper-fmarc-2027